CROWE STRIKES NEW TRAIL OF JURY FIXERS

Four Men Sought in Shepherd Case.

Eighth hour revelations concerning the sudden disappearance of Robert White, one of the state's star witnesses in the prosecution of William Dering Shepherd for the alleged typhoid murder of young Billy McClellan, last night sent squads of state's attorney's detectives on a hunt for four new witnesses.

An hour after the detectives left the prosecutor's office, word was received that one of the four persons sought had been seen around his home for more than four days, in fact not since his news was published that James J. Kelly, chiropractor who turned motorist and then insurance agent, was in the state's attorney's custody.

Crowe Holds Conference.
When Prosecutor Crowe got this word, he called a conference with his assistants, Joseph P. Savage, George German, and John Shabaro. Then went out word to detectives to search a number of shady and half world cabarets and cafes.

The information on which the detectives went forth came reluctantly, was stated, by way of additional info from Kelly, who it had been previously reported had told Mr. Crowe plenty concerning White's sudden move out of town on the eve of opening of the Shepherd trial a few weeks ago.

Mr. Crowe hinted that he will have the evidence to bring about indictments in connection with White's disappearance when the four new witnesses he has been seeking are brought in.

Crowe Is Determined.
"I brought in they will be," he doggedly. "We'll stay out after them if it takes a year to bring them in. I have determined to put an end to this tampering with juries and witness around the criminal courts, now the men I want can't stay away from their usual haunts. You tell them through the papers we might as well come in and have over with because I'll get them no matter how long it takes."

When I get them I intend to take them before the grand jury and give them a chance to tell the truth. They'll be given a chance to clear themselves or turn state's evidence. But I want the truth out of them."

Mr. Crowe and his aides still steadily refused last night to make public the startling details of Kelly's admissions.

The prosecutor said he could not make the information public without warning certain persons.

"On the other hand," he added, "I am not inclined to talk much further. We are not. The defense has made a lot of statements that I am trying to spread propaganda. Well, we'll just wait and see whether I am not."

Won't Name Men Sought.
But who the four witnesses whom Mr. Crowe was seeking last night the prosecutor also refused to name publicly. It was reported the defense were out after Arthur Byrne, admitted agent of Attorneys William Stewart and W. W. O'Brien, and his lawyers; one "Jew" Gold, and a man known only as Rosen. This report could not be verified.

Some already has been before a special session of the grand jury called by State's Attorney Crowe, where he and of certain negotiations of him and his attorney with White in connection with obtaining an affidavit from White repudiating White's testimony before the grand jury he saw Shepherd with Dr. Palmer at the latter's National University of Sciences, where Shepherd is alleged to have obtained the typhoid germs that inoculated Billy McClellan.

Callen Is Freed.
James C. Callen, arrested for tampering with a ventriloquist called in the Doheny trial, was discharged yesterday when arraigned on a charge of contempt of court. In answer to state's questions regarding his activities in the Shepherd case he denied the stories as to Barry, but admitted he was employed by Stewart and others.

Assistant State's Attorney Gorman, who had made answer, said there was nothing for the court to do but discharge him.

It is significant, however," Mr. Gorman said, "that Callen admits he was employed by Stewart and O'Brien and he says he was in their office when they met him. Also that he is acquainted with Barry."

While Attorney Stewart replied

When Chief Forester Ransom E. Kenncott pried open the crate in these parts a century ago, so did Wild Bill forsake captivity and choose the semi-wilds of the Palos hills in the country forest preserve. And just as his ancestors did a hundred years ago did Wild Bill go to his last desert yesterday, as a bullet pierced his heart.

It was a merry chase to the death that the powerful bull buffalo led his huntsman nemesis, Charles A. Coey. From early dawn till near dusk he charged about until at last, wounded and nearly spent, he rested, was found, made his last dash, snorted his last defiance, and was felled in his tracks with Coey's bullet.

Buffalo Which Fled Captors Slain in Hunt

Wild Bill is sleeping his last sleep in the Valhalla of the buffaloes.

Just as his ancestors roamed in these parts a century ago, so did Wild Bill forsake captivity and choose the semi-wilds of the Palos hills in the country forest preserve. And just as his ancestors did a hundred years ago did Wild Bill go to his last desert yesterday, as a bullet pierced his heart.

It was a merry chase to the death that the powerful bull buffalo led his huntsman nemesis, Charles A. Coey. From early dawn till near dusk he charged about until at last, wounded and nearly spent, he rested, was found, made his last dash, snorted his last defiance, and was felled in his tracks with Coey's bullet.

Escaped Last Fall.

Life inside a pasture didn't appeal to Wild Bill so well, with a herd of his brethren, he was brought here from Yellowstone National park last fall. Wild Bill made a wild dash for liberty.

When Chief Forester Ransom E. Kenncott pried open the crate in which Wild Bill made his undignified return to the land of his Country fathers, the prideful bison lowered his great head and dashed to liberty.

Defied Trappers All Winter.

All winter he roamed the Palos hills, defying hunters who would lure him from freedom, appearing here and there to confound winter fans and motorists on the roads.

But Wild Bill got to feeling a bit too gay, and, too, the summer crowds are beginning to heed the forest's allure, and they didn't appreciate old Bill's ferocious charges.

So Mr. Coey, old time motorist and balloonist, who lives not far from the preserve, obtained permission from Mr. Cernak, president of the county board, to hunt Wild Bill to his doom.

After a search from 7 o'clock in the morning until 2:30 p. m. Coey and President Cernak, riding "calico" horses, saw the big buffalo. Coey brought his weapon into action and fired three times.

Trail Him Through Forest.

Wild Bill, with one of the bullets in his hind quarter, thrashed wildly about and made a speedy bee-line for the thick timber. He left a bloody trail by which the trackers were able to search him out.

They came upon him hours later, resting in a deep ravine in the Palos hills. Wild Bill turned to face Coey with a bold stare, made ready to charge, then thought better of it, and turned to escape. It was his last thought.

The bullet caught him almost in midair, and drilled straight to his heart. Wild Bill dropped like a log, a dead man.

His parents live in the Philippines.

PARIS, May 22.—The

States senate investigation into naval oil reserves to be brought to trial.
The government asked that the court cancel two contracts and two leases entered into between the government and the defending companies, providing for operation of wells in the Elk Hills reserve and building by the companies of tanks, pipe lines, and pumping facilities for storage of 1,500,000 barrels of fuel oil at Pearl harbor. The lease contract also provided for deepening of Pearl harbor and construction of docks.

Closing the government's case, Owen J. Roberts, who was associated with former Senator Allen Pomerene, declared that the leases and contracts should be canceled because it had been shown there was a conspiracy between Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, and Edward L. Doheny, head of the oil company, which resulted in the contracts and leases.

He maintained that the transaction whereby Fall received $100,000 from Doheny "constituted every element of a bribe," and that a fraud had been worked on the United States government.

ART INSTITUTE OF DETROIT IS ROBBED OF GEMS

Detroit, Mich., May 22.—A few jewels valued at thousands of dollars have been stolen from the children's section of the Frederick Stern collection at the Detroit Institute of Arts, according to a police report late today. Officials of the institute refuse to comment on the robbery and assert the loss was nominal.

The gems, according to the police, were taken from the collection and replaced with imitations during the absence of Miss Gertrude A. Gilmore, who has charge of the section. Miss Gilmore was ill in a hospital and when she returned to her work, she discovered the substitution.

Police are seeking a watchman employed at the institute for about three weeks. His name was not made public.

The list of missing gems as given out by the police department includes:

One-half carat red ruby, Ceylon; one

one-half carat emerald-shaped sapphires; one light pigeon blood rubzony; one star shaped sapphire; one five carats; oriental topaz gems; two aquamarines, six or seven carats each;

one beryl; several emeralds of about five carats; one yellow beryl; one pyrope garnet; bluish-green beryl; aquamarine; seven carats; Siberian aquamarine; two; amethyst; ruby crystals; one orange topaz; one yellow sapphire; one and one smoky brown sapphire.

AS A BIGAMIST

(Picture on back page.)

Edwyn Cray Lloyd, 27-year-old son of Archbishop Francis E. J. Lloyd of a denominational church in the American Catholic church, was arrested yesterday on a charge of bigamy.

The charge was brought against him by Lucille J. Hassemer Lloyd, 1818 East 55th street, a teacher of general science and geography in the Bowen High school, who declares she was married to Lloyd Aug. 4, 1922, at the Chicago temple by the Rev. John Morrison.

But Lloyd, she says, was married at the time to Maud Miller Lloyd of Los Angeles, Cal. The first Mrs. Lloyd, she says, had brought suit for divorce against their joint husband, but only an interlocutory decree had been granted.

Mrs. Lloyd, or Miss Hassemer, she does not know which to call herself, lives with her mother, Mrs. Josephine Hassemer.

The father, Archbishop Lloyd, conducts the Sunday services of his church on the thirteenth floor of the Garrison building.

CITY OUTGROWS STATE, BUT STATE CONTROLS CITY

Census and Tax Figures

BY OSCAR HEWITT.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Springfield, Ill., May 23.—(Special.)

John B. Ferguson, the aged battles of Chicago who is attempting to obtain a fair representation for Cook county in the Illinois legislature, secured verification from the United States census bureau at Washington today of The Chicago Tribune's estimate of the population of Illinois and Cook county.

The Tribune's estimate, printed last

Tuesday, asserted that Cook county will have more than half of the popuindicate that Cook county will have

What the Census Shows.

The United States census estimates

as of July 1, 1920, and The Tribune's

The census bureau figures indicate that Cook county will have a majority of 52,698 persons of the state on July 1, 1920, while The Tribune's estimated showed a majority of 12,873 in Cook county on Jan. 1, 1920.

MOROCCAN ROW THREATENS TO CRUSH PAINLEVE

French Socialists Deny Support; Fall Feared.

PARIS, May 28.—(P)—The Socialists sprang an eleventh hour surprise in the Moroccan debate in the chamber of deputies, upsetting the serenity of the renovated "sacred union" when, after hearing Foreign Minister Briand's declarations, they decided late tonight to abstain from voting. They thus refused their support to the Painleve cabinet, although officially committed by their leaders to stand by the ministry.

Should the Socialists maintain their present attitude, their failure to endorse M. Painleve virtually means the destruction of the left group's majority, which has been ruling France since the elections of May 11, 1924.

The Socialists, while endorsing President Painleve's declarations today, objected to M. Briand's reference to France's alliance with Spain against the Riffians. They felt that the foreign minister's policy was not in agreement with the promise of M. Painleve made them that the Moroccan war would be absolutely defensive.

Predicts Union with Spain.

M. Briand told the chamber that France and Spain would probably soon reach an accord which would prevent supplies of arms reaching Abd-el-Krim, the Moroccan revolutionary leader.

The staunch and unequivocal approval of the government by the Nationalists, led by M. Maginot, also proved irksome to the Socialists. Their move places the Painleve cabinet in the peculiar situation of relying for its majority on the opposition, and, should the center and right parties decide to make political capital out of the defection of the government's Socialist allies and turn against the cabinet, the ministry would be placed in a minority and overthrown.

Great efforts were to be made tonight and tomorrow before the reconvened session of the chamber, which was adjourned after the action of the Socialists became known, to cause the Socialists to relent, inasmuch as their decision tonight to abstain from voting was reached by only a one vote majority at a caucus at which many prominent members of the party were absent.

Socialists May Reconsider.

There is a possibility that the Socialists will reconsider their move, especially when it is pointed out to them that their dissension from the radical bloc virtually means the end of their rule in the French parliament and their elimination from future participation in controlling the nation during the present legislature.

M. Briand never forgave the Socialists for their refusal to enter his cabinet, causing his failure to form a ministry, and, it is believed, would shed few tears at the breaking up of the left group.

SEEK OFFICIAL WHO LET GIRL LEAVE CITY HOME

Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker yesterday started an investigation to learn who of the Juvenile court authorities turned Mary Beauford, 14 year old orphan, loose to Mrs. Anna Beauchamp, who keeps a rooming house at 4148 West 22d street. The girl was sent to the Juvenile home when Mrs. Beauchamp was arrested several weeks ago in connection with the robberies charged to "Henry J. Fernekes, midget bandit."

The premier and war minister announced his intention of continuing the campaign against Abd-el-Krim's in the end, stating:

"If France retreats from its responsibility it will measure the consequences in the abdication and abandonment of Fez, Morocco, Algeria, and all its African possessions."

The ministers interrupted, chanting "Bonne Guerre" ("down with") and M. Herriot, president of the chamber, ordered them to cease "in respect for the families and survivors of the troops killed serving their country."

Not to Seize Riff Granary.

Gen. Maginot, war minister under M. Poincaré and now leader of the bloc of national opposition to the left cartel, stated that the government in 1924 authorized Gen. Lyautey to occupy the Ouezzane region, but "not to seize the granary where the Rifians obtained their food supplies, but to protect the friendly tribes there, who were aided by the warlords from the Spanish zone who carried off their crops and cattle."

Gen. Maginot said Abd-el-Krim deliberately attacked the French because, having driven the Spaniards to the coast, he desired to keep his army active and also to keep fighting some body.

Krim's Brother Wounded.

MELILLA, Spanish Morocco, May 28.—(P)—Natives reaching here report that Sidi Mohan Abd-El-Krim, brother of the Rifian leader, has arrived at Ajdir, in the Alhucemas region, with a band of 1000 men in both legs. Ajdir has been the main headquarters of Abd-el-Krim.

TROLLEY KILLS CHILD.

Bela Baliman, 4, 2735 Bonfield street, was fatally injured when he ran into the path of a street car while playing in the street at 2877 Archer avenue. She died early this morning in St. Paul's hospital.

SPLENDOR WILL SURROUND GENNA FUNERAL TODAY

Angelo Genna, Italian feudist, who was shot to death Tuesday at Hudson and Ogden avenues, will be borne to a $10,000 vault in Mount Carmel cemetery at 10 o'clock this morning. His body will lie in a $6,000 bronze casket and about it will be decked some $30,000 worth of flowers. The funeral will be held from the home of Genna's father-in-law, Henry Spingola, 175 Taylor street, to Holy Guardian Angels' church, 717 Forquer street.

The thousands, including judges, politicians, federal officials, who filed into the house last night to pay their respects, recalled the elaborate funeral last year of Dion O'Banion and Genna's splendid wedding ceremony Jan. 10, when 3,000 guests saw a wedding cake weighing a ton cut.

LEATRICE JOY DIVORCED FROM JACK GILBERT

Los Angeles, Cal., May 28.—[Special.]—Leatrice Joy, film star, also a movie luminary, today Miss Joyce accused her husband of being too much the "man about town" in real life. She won her decree on charges of habitual intemperance.

It was while at her house that Chief Schoemaker learned that somebody had returned the little girl to a woman under a $5,000 bond in a conspiracy indictment and whose home the police had declared to be the base of operations of Fernekes' gang.

ONE OF 13 MEN ON TRIAL FOR STAMP PLOT CONFESSES

Dominick Vacca, one of the thirteen defendants now on trial before Federal Judge Adam C. Cliff on charges of conspiracy in connection with the manufacturing and distribution of more than $1,000,000 worth of spurious war savings stamps, pleaded guilty yesterday afternoon as court adjourned for a short recess.

Vacca made his plea after listening to the testimony of Charles Leach, expert engraver, who confessed to the manufacture of the plates, and told of the conspiracy formed in Vacca's Illinois shack near Marion Harbor, Mich. Leach also told of trying to borrow $2,500 from Mike Carr, a lumber dealer, with the view of obtaining the plates. Marrozzo, Leach said, had a mortgage on his home at that time and could not afford that much, but finally loaned him $500.

Leach asked for a special bodyguard.

fearing that he would meet the same fate as Tony Barbato, owner of the Blue Hours cafe, who was shot to death in his cafe when it was learned he was to be a witness for the government. Daniel Perry, former bailiff, who was a government witness, was shot and severely wounded several weeks ago.

Chief Deputy United States Marshal John J. Doyle assigned six marshals to the courtroom.

Eastern Firm Wants Control of Leviathan
New York, May 28.—(P)—Returning from Washington, where he said he conferred with shipping board officials, Emmet J. McCormack, treasurer of Moore & McCormack, shipping operators, today confirmed reports that he is negotiating for control of the Leviathan Lines of steamship companies.

Mr. McCormack said that because of the fact that his firm operates 55 vessels, the overhead of the ships for which he is negotiating could be reduced and, he believes, the present deficit could be wiped out.

BULLARD SICK, DIVISION GOES TO STOP GERMANS

Pershing's Message Before Yanks Enter Fight.

BY GEN. ROBERT LEE BULLARD.
Who is in command of the Third Army, which is to be the main Army of the United States.

[As these are personal memories or experiences, the pronoun "I" can never be out of sight. I am not offering these memories as absolute fact, but as my impressions and belief at the time.—R. L. Bullard.]

RESOLUTION XIII.
Copyright, 1925, Pass & Co.
We were out at last. A moment to gather ourselves, and we were to be off by rail to the northwest to help fill the great gap left by the 8th British army.

Never a commander I received an order more gladly. I started on our service to which he looked forward with more lively anticipation. Never, I felt, had a duty found me personally better prepared in body and mind. In body especially how good and fit I felt! On this latter was I congratulating myself on the last afternoon before starting.

The next morning at 5 o'clock on a turn in my cot a sharp pain caught me in the side. In an instant I was hauled to the hospital in excruciating pain—neuritis! Four days and nights of suffering and I "jumped" the hospital and followed my departed division to the northwest, carrying with it the agony of neuritis and carrying it little abated, through all the hard fighting of the spring and summer of 1918, carrying it until now a shadow.

All my life I had known sickness and suffering; nothing equal to this. But for it a livelier story I am sure would have been enacted to be written in the war where I was.

Fellows Division from Sick Bed.

By rail over a circuitous route far from the battle front (made necessary by the Germans' present disposition to make sudden violent drives into the allied front) my division had proceeded to Gisors, northwest of Paris. There we were detained there we were held for a few days in the forming reserve army of the French, under Gen. Micheler.

It was known that we should again serve in line against the enemy with the French, because the Americans had withdrawn. There was no higher American command near to be over us and the English were not in sight—captured, killed, or pushed aside, so far as we knew, to the north.

The next fighting was expected in the open—warfare of movement—as the French say. Now for preparation for it after two months and a half in the trenches.

At it we went with zest in all units, covering fields and roads in all day drills. Everything new in tactics that we could hear of, whether of the Allies or of the enemy, was tried. All thoughts were on one subject, to meet the enemy in the open in the traditional American way. At same time the condition of the command was carefully looked to by the French army commander. Gen. Micheler, under whom we had temporarily come.

Americans Served Before Battle.

After a great test maneuver in open warfare in which we were found quite proficient, we were decided to send us toward the enemy.

Gen. Pershing witnessed the test maneuver. After it he had the officers of the division assembled at my headquarters and spoke to them. All non-American officers were excluded. He was going to talk to Americans only. It was not oratory. He is not, or at least was not, then, an orator. He halted in his speech, after every few words, saying "eh, eh, eh." But he had a message and he gave it. It was an earnest, but not a dramatic occasion, as many after the stirring events that followed tried to make it out.

I am sure men, Pershing himself included, in 1918, saw that on that occasion he was deeply moved by the import of impending, mighty events. If so, then I am inclined to believe that he, too, sees more in the occasion by hindsight than he saw by foresight.

Pershing's Terse Message.

His message, given in his terseness, was simple enough. It was, in substance: "You have just had a test of efficiency and met it. I am gratified. I am confident that you will likewise meet every test put upon you.

[To be continued tomorrow]

trenches, facing here west, menacingly near the English channel and threateningly placed for any push to break through the allied line and reach that channel, separating the British and French armies—a maneuver that would have ended it for the French at least, and probably also for the British.

Americans, we were thinking with anxiety in this crisis, were not yet sufficiently trained to adhere to American traditions and methods. You must hold to these in your fighting and in all your future action against the enemy. Then we will win."

Then we will all natural things to say.

There were hardly now to his hours.

His training methods had long before this brought their minds in line with his; his thoughts were their thoughts on this subject. In after months the occasion appeared more historical than it at the time seemed, and men were asking what Gen. Pershing had said. Few could remember. The very naturalness of what he said kept it from being especially marked for memory by those who will win."

The allies knew the danger; everybody was looking for the next move to be made.

JARDINE CALLS FOR FAIR PLAY IN FOOD MARTS

Warns Grain and Live Stock Interests.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, launched his campaign here yesterday to restore confidence in the world's largest grain and live stock markets by eliminating features he regards as gambling and unfair methods. He made his first stop here on his six weeks' tour of the country "to gather ammunition."

Warns Grain Traders.

Concerning his relations with the Chicago and other grain markets, Mr. Jardine said, almost immediately after his arrival: "The Chicago Board of Trade must put its house in order. We are not opposed to the legitimate functioning of the Board of Trade, but we do oppose gambling. People are beginning to think it is a nuisance, because it has been running wild."

This afternoon at 2:30 Mr. Jardine will conference with traders and other persons on the "housekeeping" he says is to be done. Placing a limit on the price fluctuations in any one day of trading may be one proposal.

Mr. Jardine said he was interested in the Grain Marketing company, now faced with selling $4,000,000 stock to raise money advanced to that organization.

"I am naturally interested in any effort to reorganize the Grain Marketing company," Mr. Jardine added. He and Secretary of Commerce Hoover attended conferences in Washington with leaders of the opposing forces of the cooperative grain marketing movement.

Talks at Stockyards.

Soon after arriving yesterday morning Mr. Jardine, accompanied by John T. Cain III, in charge of administrators of the stockyards and packers' association, took on a tour of Paddockton. A. G. Loveland, president of the Union Stockyards and Transit company, headed the party. Mr. Jardine was taken to the roof of the Exchange building and given a birdseye view of the stockyards.

"That's what I wanted to see," he said later, while on his way to the Stockyards Inn. There he spoke at noon before several hundred commercial men and packers.

Says Crooks Creep In.

"I have great confidence in men," Mr. Jardine said. "Crooks are the exception, but they will get in. I know that you have them here at the yards. Crooks get in everywhere. We have them especially in the department of agriculture."

"When I was at the Kansas State Agricultural college they got into the faculty. But they soon are found out. You will get the crooks that operate in the live stock market. You know them better than I do and you know them before I do."

"I want to help you men eliminate the undesirable operators on the market. We are going to fight you men. No favoritism will be shown. If you fail to help, then I might make an earnest, unaided effort to eliminate the crooks and—perhaps throw monkey wrenches into your honest activities. I know you want to run

FIVE SCHOOLBOYS FORSAKE STUDIES AND FLEE HOMES

The arrival of summer before the advent of school vacations has proved too much for the primal instincts of five Chicago schoolboys. Their parents, waiting anxiously for news, can say only that their children must be afflicted with wan derlust.

One of the boys is Jack Dunne, 11 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lambert, 4245 Sheridan road. Mr. Lambert is an actor in "Stepping Stones." With Jack went Billy Thompson, 10 years old, the son of Mrs. Jeanette Hepp, 4345 Kenmore avenue. Mrs. Lambert had scolded her son for playing truant from school.

Richard Merritt, 14 years old and a student in the Schurz High School, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Merritt, 5445 Byron street, ran away with Osburn Hohnquist, 12 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl V. Holquist, 5415 Byron street. Mrs. Holquist has received a letter from her son, saying the boys are on their way to Wisconsin, to seek our fortune."

Samuel Anazoyone, 14 years old, 1463 Cuyler avenue, a Lake View high school student, left home Saturday to go swimming. He never went near the beach, his parents say.

the market as closely and honestly as I want it to be run."

In his first visit to give and take a "once over" Mr. Jardine, in referring to the administrator of the stockyards and packers law, said he put a man in who was a westerner who knows the language of the cow men. He knows cows and sheep, unless some one's been lying to me.

"When you have trouble John T. Cain III will come out to see you about it. He used to work on this market and before that he and I went to school together, though for many years I lost track of him. I know that I can leave the administration in his hands."

Mr. Cain said that he wanted to give every one a "square deal." He made an appeal for cooperation between the live stock and meat industries so that the men on the farms and range will be given fair returns and unnecessary expense will not be tacked on to the price the consumer has to pay.

RELIEF PLANES GIVE AMUNDSEN 6 DAYS TO RETURN

Speed Plans for Rescue Parties in Arctic.

BY ANDREAS BACKER.

[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

OSLO, Norway, May 28.—For six more days the eyes of waiting ships and nations will be strained toward the northern horizon. By next Thursday, if Roald Amundsen has not yet returned over the ice barrier which girds the arctic seas, relief ships will speed from Oslo, Nome, and perhaps the United States, in a desperate effort to rescue the aerial explorer who two days ago hopped off in two planes to make the north pole.

The relief ship from Norway and the United States probably will carry planes and full relief equipment. The Norwegian government will not try to send planes over the polar wastes to the region of the north pole in an effort to spy out Amundsen in the icy desert. The ships will cruise along the ice barrier, sending the planes only a short distance inland in the belief that the explorer, if he met with mishap, did so soon before or after he reached the pole.

Ask MacMillan Aid.

OSLO, May 28.—[United News.]—The Norwegian Airplane society decided today to ask Donald R. MacMillan, the American explorer, to look out for the Amundsen Ellsworth polar expedition, missing since last week, when MacMillan arrives near Cape Columbia, on Grant Land, north of the Greenland coast.

The Norwegian Aerapeutic society sent a radio message to Amundsen requesting aid. Lieut. Horgen, who is aboard the Fram, one of the explorer mother ships, asking whether a relief expedition was advisable. Lieut. Horgen replied that the Fram and the Hobby, now in the region of King's Bay, Spitsbergen, would continue patrolling the northern waters until six weeks from the date of Amundsen's departure, in the belief that the expedition might come toward the edge of the ice.

After that period, if no trace has been found of Amundsen, it will be assumed that he has proceeded toward Cape Columbia. On that assumption, the ships would return to their base.

Tells of Rescue Plan.

LIVERPOOL, May 28.—(AP)—Grettie Algoon, 19, British Columbia, who has been making plans for a rescue flight in a dirigible from the ship in the ice, believes that Capt. Roald Amundsen has met with trouble in his flight to the north pole, on which he started from Spitsbergen a week ago.

"It appears to us," Algarnson said, "that we must relinquish our flight to Alaska and concentrate on the rescue of Amundsen. I think Amundsen is in difficulty; it is clear his plane has been abandoned."

WAR VET KILLS WIFE'S FRIEND, WOUNDS HER SON

William Hawky of Harvey, Ill., a shell shocked veteran of the Canadian War and an ex-convict, yesterday shot and killed the protector of his estranged wife, wounded an innocent man, and escaped. Police squads secured the south side all last night in an effort to capture him.

The woman he killed was Mrs. Isabella Scheckley, 40 years old, 1405 West Marquette road. The man was Mrs. Scheckley's son, Louis. Louis is in St. Bernard hospital.

Hawky worked in a Harvey factory after the war until he stole a fellow employee's pay check. He made that good, but was arrested for disorderly conduct. He went to Ohio and police say he was sent to the Ohio state Penitentiary for robbery.

When he returned to Harvey he became a special officer for the Illinois Central railroad and married Miss Emily Boo, the daughter of Mrs. Emily Boo, 4411 South Peoria street.

A baby was born months ago and then, Mrs. Hawky says, her husband became negligent and outright abusive. So she left him and sought protection in the home of Mrs. Scheckley, a life long friend of her mother.

Hawky stormed into Mrs. Scheckley's home at 8 o'clock yesterday morning and demanded his wife. Mrs. Scheckley answered, "I don't know where she is."

Hawky became abusive. Louis ran to the defense of his mother and Hawky shot four times. Mrs. Scheckley died in half an hour. Louis is badly wounded in his left side but he will live.

JARDINE CALLS FOR FAIR PLAY IN FOOD MARTS

Warns Grain and Live Stock Interests.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, launched his campaign here yesterday to restore confidence in the world's largest grain and live stock markets by eliminating features he regards as gambling and unfair methods. He made his first stop here on his six weeks' tour of the country "to gather ammunition."

Warns Grain Traders.

Concerning his relations with the Chicago and other grain markets, Mr. Jardine said, almost immediately after his arrival: "The Chicago Board of Trade must put its house in order. We are not opposed to the legitimate functioning of the Board of Trade, but we do oppose gambling. People are beginning to think it is a nuisance, because it has been running wild."

This afternoon at 2:30 Mr. Jardine will conference with traders and other persons on the "housekeeping" he says is to be done. Placing a limit on the price fluctuations in any one day of trading may be one proposal.

Mr. Jardine said he was interested in the Grain Marketing company, now faced with selling $4,000,000 stock to raise money advanced to that organization.

Talks at Stockyards.

Soon after arriving yesterday morning Mr. Jardine, accompanied by John T. Cain III, in charge of administrators of the stockyards and packers' association, took on a tour of Paddockton. A. G. Loveland, president of the Union Stockyards and Transit company, headed the party. Mr. Jardine was taken to the roof of the Exchange building and given a birdseye view of the stockyards.

"That's what I wanted to see," he said later, while on his way to the Stockyards Inn. There he spoke at noon before several hundred commercial men and packers.

Says Crooks Creep In.

"I have great confidence in men," Mr. Jardine said. "Crooks are the exception, but they will get in. I know that you have them here at the yards. Crooks get in everywhere. We have them especially in the department of agriculture."

"When I was at the Kansas State Agricultural college they got into the faculty. But they soon are found out. You will get the crooks that operate in the live stock market. You know them better than I do and you know them before I do."

"I want to help you men eliminate the undesirable operators on the market. We are going to fight you men. No favoritism will be shown. If you fail to help, then I might make an earnest, unaided effort to eliminate the crooks and—perhaps throw monkey wrenches into your honest activities. I know you want to run

MCCLINTOCK'S ESTATE VALUE IS CALLED MILLION

Personality Is $800,000,
Real Estate $200,000.

The fortune was Billy McClintock's for a few short months, and which now is the stake for which William D. Shepherd, the youth's foster father and heir, is battling to hold from nine competing cousins, was described yesterday in an inventory filed in Probate court.

Not one item in the list of properties and securities valued at $1,000,000 is regarded by the administrator to be of doubtful value.

The personal property value is fixed at $800,000 and real estate at $200,000.

The only stocks in the fortune as listed are 100 shares of Commonwealth Edison company, 100 shares of Crane company, and 100 shares of Fairbanks Morse company.

Bonds in the Estate.

Among the bonds listed are the following:

Arapahoe Power company	$10,000

DEFENSE SEEKS JOHN W. DAVIS IN EVOLUTION CASE

Money and Advice Poor In to Aid Indicted Teacher.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Dayton, Tenn., May 28.—[Special.]—John W. Davis, late candidate for the presidency, is the latest stellar figure to appear in the court conflict between religion and science which will be staged here July 10.

Prof. John R. Neal, counsel for John Thomas Scopes, indicted teacher of evolution, announced today that Mr. Davis would be sought as one of the constitutional lawyers to take the case to the Supreme court.

Mr. Davis is a Scotch Presbyterian, and, although this is Republican territory, there probably will be no objection to his appearance in the trial.

Lawyers Offer Services.

Lawyers of Chicago, Detroit, San Francisco, Washington, D. C., and Pacific coast have offered services and money in the defense, Prof. Neal said. He came here today from Knoxville to confer with his associate counsel, John W. Godsey, and with George W. Rappleyea, who is acting for the American Civil Liberties union.

"The interest in this case is nationwide," he said, as he threw a bundle of unopened mail on Mr. Godsey's desk table. "The financial support offered is surprising. Ministers of all denominations are writing to me encouragingly."

This is a Tennessee case, but the law established here as to the right to teach science in the public schools will act as a precedent in other states, and the intelligent people of this country are entitled to have the best legal advice available to try the case. That we will get."

Question About Darrow.

As to Clarence Darrow of Chicago, it is still a question whether his services will be accepted.

His announcement that he was not an atheist nor an infidel but an agnostic, has been received with mingled emotions of respect, bewilderment and hostility.

There are no such fine distinctions here.

Mr. Neal declared that the opposition to Mr. Darrow on religious grounds was just as archaic and absurd as the passing of the anti-evolution law in the state legislature, an act which has been traced to the door of friends of William Jennings Bryan.

The strategy of the defense, as it was outlined briefly today, indicates that this will be a case of elaborate record.

Two sets of lawyers will be employed, said Mr. Neal, one coming in he will examine scientists—from each branch, after the manner in which the animals entered the ark—to show that science cannot be taught without the evolutionary theory.

Will Call Ministers.
In the field of theology the defense expects to call ministers to explain the construction of the story of creation. With Mr. Darrow examining these orthodox gentlemen as to just how God created man, there would be some rare scenes in the old courtroom. In addition will be the liberal clergymen to tell how God works along the lines of evolutionary philosophy.

Dudley Field Malone has postponed a trip to Europe to enter the case and is expected here in a few days. Mr. Malone agreed to come to the defense of the defense for the prosecution on June 1, when he will be passing this way. The elder of the Churchmen, organ of the Episcopal church, had offered his services, Prof. Neal said today. Also, a group of New York ministers have banded together to aid the defense, morally and financially.

SENATE IGNORES GAS TAX, WHICH SEEMS DOOMED

Anti-Daylight Saving Bill Also Dormant.

BY PARKE BROWN.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Springfield, Ill., May 28.—[Special.]

The lower house will vote next Tuesday on the question of submitting a repeal of the Illinois prohibition and search and seizure laws to the people.

Representative O'Grady, who has been waiting for a favorable time to call the repeal bill for passage, said he was willing to let the measure go up or down next Tuesday. He believed he can pass the bill if the wets are all on hand. Its chances in the senate are not so promising.

WIN IN Committee.

The wets have been out maneuvered at every turn by the anti-saloon league forces.

They let the drys pack the house judiciary committee again today and a companion measure of the bill creating a state prohibition bureau was defeated by a vote of 20 to 3.

The companion bill carries the disposition of fines imposed through enforcement of the state dry laws.

Frank R. Elbert, state superintendent of the anti-saloon league, is lining up the drys for a new attempt to pass the bill next week. It has been defeated once in the house in the only wet victory of the session. The senate passed the bill and sent it back to the house. Numerous reluctant drys are angry at being forced to face the issue again, but Elbert is insistent.

Opposition Is Strong.

In other words, the opposition to a gasoline tax, even of a compromise form, seems to be strong throughout the state.

For similar reasons the calling of the Sned anti-daylight savings bill also was postponed. Senator William J. Sned, its author, still feels that it would pass in spite of recent Chicago press protests, but he is not exactly sure where he stands.

"During the last two weeks," he said, "the advocates of daylight saving have been urging friends of the plan of advancing the clock to write to their legislators on the subject; and I believe that it will be just as well to give them full opportunity to demonstrate their demonstration."

If the Sned bill were enacted into law, Chicago daylight saving would end on July 1.

Presents Policy Bill.

Senator Henry M. Dunlap surprised his associates this morning by again taking up his state police bill, which is considered dead since the Barr substitute bill passed the upper house.

Senator Dunlap called it upon second reading, had two amendments adopted, the more important one being a referendum provision, and advanced it to third or final reading.

The senate passed the Elrod landlord and tenants bill, which will continue to force the emergency legislation enacted by the rent war in Chicago to year 2000.

Warning that end of the session is in sight was served by the public reduction of the senate payroll. Until this time there have been 61 clerks, stenographers, doorkeepers, pages and other employees caring for the needs of a house of 51 members, but now about a score have been dropped.

Insurance Agent Beaten
by Robbers; No Loot

Two robbers shot and severely beat G. B. Wilson, 1164 East 61st street, agent for the John Hancock Insurance company, 7433 Cottage Grove avenue, when they attempted to rob him yesterday. The robbers fled without any loot, although the agent carried several hundred dollars in collections. Wilson was taken to the Jackson Park hospital, where it was said his condition was not critical. The attempted robbery occurred in East 73rd street between Ellis and Ingleside avenues.

FINDS WOMAN DEAD.

Mr. George Paluso, 56, 816 Hope street, was found dead in his residence. Joseph Paluso, a tenant in the building, discovered the body. Her husband, who left saying his wife was ill, is being sought.

2 MEN KILLED, 1
HURT BY BLAST
IN RESTAURANT

Explosion of a heater in the Hong Kong Lo Chinese restaurant, State and Van Buren streets, yesterday killed two men and probably fatally injured a third. The restaurant is located on the fourth floor. The blast hurled one of the dead men, both Negroes, through an open window and into the street below. Waiters and workers in the vicinity found the bodies.

The dead are: John Burgess, 30 years old, 453 East Forty-ninth street, and Oliver Freeman, 23 years old, living at the same address. William Freeman, also colored, was severely burned. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where his condition is to be critical. Excitement was caused in the Rialto theater, which adjoins the building in which the explosion occurred. Squads from the Central police station and the detective bureau were sent to the scene.

AMERICAN STATES.

In the house of commons they have inquired whether the United States would be asked to credit against our loan to Great Britain the debts repudiated by several states of the Union. The answer of the British government was No.

We are disposed to think our own government would better say Yes and without being requested.

We concede there is no legal responsibility of the federal government to meet had debts owed by the states. But for broad purposes of public policy the federal government, then weak and relatively poor, assumed obligations of the states, and the precedent is one we can afford to consider now.

Strictly speaking, the debts repudiated by Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, and South Carolina are not national obligations and their payment ought not to be imposed upon the people of states which did not pledge their credit or spend the money loaned. But there may be ways of meeting that objection. The fact remains that foreign and also native investors loaned real money to these states on the faith of official acts, and have not been paid back. A British association of these creditors claims a total default of something like sixty million dollars with an accrued interest, accumulating from the 1840's, of twice that sum, assuming an average interest rate of 6 per cent for an average period of 60 years.

The defaulting states have various excuses for default. Some are rather technical. None is very likely to weigh much in the scale of foreign opinion nor in that of disinterested American opinion. The most impressive covers only those loans made after the war by "carpet bag" governments, but that excuse does not operate against the lenders but against the United States. The states got the lenders' money and that money ought to be repaid.

If there is a responsibility for "carpet bag" dishonesty and waste, it should be met by the United States government and not by investors in good faith in state securities.

But there were heavy repudiations of loans made before the war and of loans not chargeable to "carpet bag" governments. These loans were made to establish state banks, state highways, canals, and other improvements. Whether the money was well spent has nothing whatever to do with the lenders' claim to repayment. Whether the state governments which did the borrowing were wise or honest has nothing to do with the lenders' right to repayment. No honest mind can doubt that the repudiating states, all of them now solvent and able to pay under proper conditions, ought voluntarily to negotiate a fair settlement and begin to pay up.

But if they will not, we think the United States government should take cognizance of the moral claims underlying these loans and of their actual bearing upon the general credit of the American people. Our constitutional system avoids legal responsibility of the central government which naturally must consider the danger of setting, or rather reviving, a precedent in assuming state liabilities. But while we are asserting solemnly the sanctity of contract in the case of our huge loans to Europe, our position would be more comfortable if we waived in this instance the protection of our constitutional distinction between state and nation, and credited the sum loaned to the repudiating states against the loans made by the creditors' governments.

That, of course, would involve an arrangement by these governments, chiefly Great Britain, with the private claimants, but that is not primarily our affair. What is our affair is the adjustment of payment among ourselves. Probably the repudiating states would refuse to recognize the validity of the nation's payment of their loans, but we think the general sense of the nation would support it firmly, in which case means might be devised to recover the payment indirectly. They might, for example, sue each against federal appropriations for state aid in far installations.

In any case, while the repudiated debts in the main have a sound moral basis which the nation ought not to ignore, even though the states which received the money have ignored it. No one wishes these states unduly burdened, but none is bankrupt. All are solvent, increasing in wealth and able to make gradual restitution. Repudiation may have been a human error. Refusal to pay now is not excusable. If the repudiating states are willing to bear the discredit of default the nation should do justice, clear the American name, and deal with the defaulters, if that be practicable, or charge up the payment to profit and loss. No shadow of excuse should be left for challenging the good faith of the American people.

POOR OLD ZBYSZKO!

This department, which isn't perfectly certain where a dying man begins and a chamberlain ends, yet has it in its heart to feel sorry for poor old Stanislaus Zbyszko, the terrible Pole.

Stanislaus has been wrestling and wrestling for years, but he never was able to wrestle himself into the championship. That isn't why they called him the terrible Pole. He wasn't terrible that way. He was always pretty good, but not quite good enough. Finally, when he had reached the ripe old age of some 52 years, things began to look up. A former college athlete named Wayne Mann, affectionately known as Big, took on the champion whose name was Ed Lewis. Big tossed Ed a mile in the air and when Lewis came down, he wasn't much account. Big rolled Lewis over a couple of times and therewith thought he was the wrestling champion of the world. Everybody but Lewis agreed that he was.

Then Mr. Zbyszko spent an evening with Big. There were the usual body scissors and when that was all over, Big was on his back and Stanislaus thought he was champion.

Big therupon joined Ed in insisting that Stanislaus wasn't. We can't imagine on what grounds Big, who went to college and perhaps studied logic, based his claims. Poor old Stanislaus finally realized that rolling his enemies over on their backs wasn't enough. He went to court to prevent Ed and Big from calling themselves champion.

The hall of justice, according to our Mr. Eckersall, smelled heavily of wintergreen liniment, there were so many athletes present. On the bench sat Judge Hugo Friend, himself an Olympic athlete. The only man in the courtroom who wore a collar smaller than 17% was Mr. Denen, the junior senator from Illinois, who was representing Mr. Lewis.

The judge said in effect that he couldn't see why they didn't settle the fuss in the ring. Which shows that Hugo Friend was a grand hurler and no slouch at the broad jump, but what Judge Friend doesn't know about wrestling is plenty. The kind of settling they do in wrestling matches is different. It's generally done in advance.

OBSTRUCTION IS A HABIT.

The new city council hasn't been in business long, but in its first few weeks, with the help of the mayor, it has refused to create the Calumet harbor, it has sought to erect a stone wall around the city by refusing to permit North Shore electric trains to enter the loop, it has sought to drive buses from the streets, it has refused to consider the Santa Fe track elevation project, and finally it has refused to modify the building code, in accordance with sound constructional practice. If it has any accomplishments to its credit they are negligible alongside this imposing catalog of obstruction.

That is the record of the first few weeks of the present council's life, when the aldermen presumably were full of vigor and initiative; we dread to think what will happen as the months go by. The aldermen even now are so afraid of going half-cooked that they don't go off at all.

There are times when caution is advisable, but there can be excesses of caution. The Santa Fe ordinance, for instance, has been discussed for years. It provides, among other things, for the elevation of tracks and for the opening of LaSalle street south from the loop, a sorely needed improvement. An ordinance was drafted last December and amended in February. It has the approval of Col. Sprague, the commissioner of public works, whose devotion to the public interest cannot be doubted. All the time spent in negotiating this ordinance, all the money spent in plans and surveys, might as well have been devoted to a study of Aztec culture.

The Nickel plate ordinance for the construction of a harbor at Lake Calumet also was approved by Col. Sprague. The council did pass the ordinance, but there was a question whether the majority was large enough for a transfer of city property. The ordinance was drafted last December and amended in February. ## Elmer Builds Air Castles of Radio Programs

Then Calls Public to Look Them Over.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.
This listener had built up too elaborate air castles in anticipation of last night's programs, and the result was something of a wreck.

My musical appetite was whetted by very creditable musical programs at the low wavers, WIBO and WMBB, T to 720.

Then into WEFH for their first anniversary program, but this turned out to be pretty much of a grand advertising talkfest.

Seriously, this station is entitled to celebrate in its own sweet way for once, for every day of the last year it has been engaged in the solid business of giving us one continuous flow of high class concerts and entertainment, with frequent surprise programs of extraordinary excellence. Presumably the same high standard may be looked for from the station this coming year.

The central tower of my delightful air castle had been built up on the Bush conservatory commencement concert at Orchestra hall, through WMAG. A fine foundation was laid by the conservatory symphony orchestra with the "Hansel and Gretel" wimpel, and Edith Kendal and the orchestra with D'Ambrone's violin Concerto in B minor created a highly colored, fancifully named, and decorated structure, sky high, and of some world other than this.

Then a magnificent piano concerto was started and broken off at 8 o'clock by this station's announcer, hastily breaking the news that they were signing off. And summer's coming . . . and there are few great musical broadcasts . . . and fewer symphony orchestra broadcasts.

Now we can wake up, for at this 19:35 hour WHT is broadcasting a special "getaway" parting program, put on by the Medina Temple at the Northwestern station previous to their departure for California at 11:20.

The 120 piece brass band, "the largest in the middle west," the announcer proudly exclaims, is raising the train shed or something at this moment. Now the Oriental band of 30 pieces; now the Medina Shrine Chanters singing "California, Here I Come." "Six train loads of them," claims the announcer, adding that there is in the last set crowd even assembled in the station to see them off. Good-by. Good luck.

MRS. L. M. STUMER BECOMES BRIDE OF NEW YORK MAN

RADIO PROGRAMS FOR TODAY

(Daylight saving time throughout.)

ANOTHER great day draws near won't be long now—for tomorrow W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRAP station on the Drake hotel, will broadcast the annual 800 miles auto race from the Speedway at Indianapolis. The first great race to you friends will take place at Indianapolis on June 1. Ryan will be about 1615, and, as this promises to be an all-day affair, don't forget to pack the lunch box. Arrangements for this great spectacle before our radio listeners have been made through courtesy of the Prest-O-Lite company of Indianapolis.

But before tomorrow there comes today!

This evening's 8:30 to 9:30 program, which follows, has been arranged by Eva Emmet Wycoff of The Gunn School of Music faculty:

ITALY AND U. S. MOVING TOWARD DEBT AGREEMENT

Rome Envoy Dickers with Mellon and Kellogg.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., May 28.—(Special)—The principles which will guide settlement of Italy's war debt to the United States have been discussed in preliminary steps taken toward a funding agreement with that government,
it was learned authoritatively today.
No definite terms, however, have entered into the conversations which the Italian ambassador, Signor de Martino, has had with Secretary Mellon,
chairman of the American debt funding commission, and with Secretary of State Kellogg, also a member of the administration.

Acknowledges Rome Stands.

The question of Italy's financial ability to pay is one phase of the problem.
As a result of his conferences with Secretary Mellon and Kellogg, the Italian ambassador is understood to be asking the government for further information.

All preliminary negotiations are being conducted in Washington through Ambassador de Martino, it is stated, and may be carried to their conclusion
through the same channel, although it was said to be possible that, after plans have reached a certain stage, they may be turned over to a special commission or representative appointed by the Italian government.

France, Belgium Silent.

As far as could be learned to date
no communications have been received from this government either from France or Belgium in regard to conversations which the two American ambassadors in those countries have been carrying on with the French finance minister and the Belgian foreign minister, respectively. The French ambassador, M. Dasschner, called on Secretary Kellogg at the state department today, but this was regular diplomatic day, when any member of the corps may call without previous engagement. It was stated that Ambassador Dasschner did not discuss the question of debts.

FRANCE RESTORES RIGID MILITARY
RULE ON RHINE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BERLIN, May 28.—Reports of a tremendous French defeat in Morocco are circulating in the German Rhine zone when the French troops were moving from one end of the zone to the other, upsetting the population. According to
M. Auguste Abenshtet, the Rhineland believes white troops are being transported to Morocco, whence blacks and Moroccans, troops are being withdrawn to the Rhineland. Military rule, which was shocked in the occupied zone under the Herriot regime, now has been restored to the full severity of the days when M. Poincaré was in power. Newspapers such as the Rheinische Westfälische and Zeitung are banned by the French censor officials.

OCHS DENIES U. S.
ROW WITH PARIS
OVER DEBT TALK

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, May 28.—(AP)—The problem of the French debt to the United States is on its way to a satisfactory settlement, Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, told the American club of Paris today. Recent reports of disagreeable or impolite messages between Washington and Paris were unfounded, said Mr. Ochs, deciding he spoke upon the highest authority.

"I have been particularly cautious," Mr. Ochs remarked, "that there are some things I may not discuss. I am here on my own hook.
But I think I may be permitted to say
—and I have the highest authority—that those reports are untrue that there have been disagreeable or impolite messages received with respect to the French debt to the United States."

"On the other hand, there have been instances where there are now in progress, very satisfactory negotiations on the problem of the settlement of the French debt."

U. S. AND BRITAIN MUST PILOT OWN SHIPS—HOUGHTON

Give New Ambassador Big Ovation.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, May 28.—Alanson B.
Houghton, the new American ambassador to London, received an ovation
today when he appeared as honor
guest of a luncheon given by the English Speaking Union. Speaking to 700 men and women, including most distinguished persons from all walks of life, and millions listening in on the radio, Mr. Houghton made a dignified speech, alternating sentimental talk about "home across the sea," and
"blood is thicker than water," with such occasions.

"We may be members of a family,
but we first of all are ourselves," Mr.
Houghton said. "We first have our own problems and difficulties. Despite fundamental ties, England and America each looks on the world through its own window. I wish the number of people working for organizations for the better acquaintance of the two nations could be multiplied a thousand fold."

Australia Awaits U. S. Fleet.

Sir Joseph Cook, high commissioner for Australia, followed Mr. Houghton.
He intimated his feeling for a white Pacific.

"Australia knows America," Sir
Joseph stated. "We feel that the Americans are our nearest neighbors, although separated by a three week's sea voyage. We are happily awaiting the visit of your great fleet, which is coming to pay a neighborly visit and not as a show of warlike force. They will get the warmest welcome ever received anywhere."

No Wish for Prohibition.

In a past America felt that it owed a debt to France. We today are not so slow to forget that we owe a national debt to America. Whether she likes it or not, the United States is bound to be more concerned in Europe in the future than in the past."

Lord Birkenhead, presiding, expressed the British attitude on prohibition, saying:

"We watch with the greatest interest the experiment you are making without the slightest desire to make it ourselves."

SWEDISH LEFT WINS FIGHT TO CUT DOWN ARMY

By MARTIN MARTELUS.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

STOCKHOLM, May 28.—The Swedish rickety yesterday in a bitter debate accepted the defense committee's proposal concerning the organization of national defense, being a compromise with the government's proposal. The first chamber accepted the proposal, 55 votes against 40, and the second chamber by 157 votes against 50. The decision means the end of a long,
fierce fight, which had been raging since last summer.

The so-called left solution of the question of national defense proposed by the socialists and supported by liberal groups, gained a victory over the conservative party.

The debate was one of the biggest in Sweden's history, with 100 speakers in the second chamber and 40 in the first chamber.

The decision means the army corps will be reduced from six to four, eight infantry and several cavalry regiments will be scrapped, including the Gota guards, of which the king is chief, and the old Smolander regiment, with which Gustavus Adolphus won the historic victory of Lutzen in 1621. The liberal leader, Herr Hallberg, tried to rescue some of the regiments, but his proposal did not gain the support of his own party.

"The decision means that the Swedish liberal party has committed harsh," he said.

The decision will result in the old party strife between the political leaders, who before the war were fighting
each other,

CHARITIES SHARE
IN THE $3,150,000
BECKER ESTATE

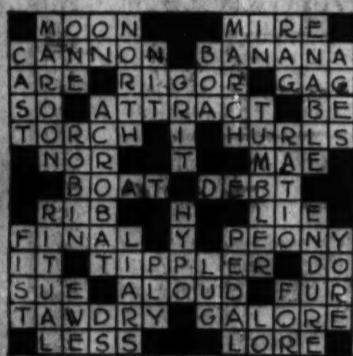

A petition for the probate of a will disposing of an estate of $3,150,000 was filed in the probate court of Judge Martin C. Becker in Waukegan yesterday. The petition was filed by James H. Becker, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Becker of the same town, who was a prominent banking figure in Chicago before his death. The hearing was set for Monday, June 2.

The instrument filed in court and purposed to be the will of the banker disposes of the $3,150,000 estate to charitable institutions, and his surviving relatives.

Fifty thousand dollars is turned over to the Jewish Charities of Chicago, 1800 Dearborn street. Another $10,000 goes to the Chicago Art Institute. One third of the remainder is bequeathed to the widow, Mrs. W. Becker, Ravinia. Two-thirds of the remainder is to be equally divided among four children, James H. Becker, a son, and Helen B. Sulzberg, Louis B. Shire, and Margaret B. Friedrich, daughters, all of Highland Park.

MIDWAY BOWS IN LAST TRIBUTE TO ITS PRESIDENT

Colleagues Pay Honor at
Dr. Burton's Funeral.

To the triumphant chords of his favorite hymn, "Fight the Good Fight," Ernest DeWitt Burton, third president of the University of Chicago, was buried yesterday. Amid the gray Gothic buildings where he had wrought his scholarly tasks for thirty years, and where he had presided for two, they who were left behind balance his worthy beyond most.

There was a simplicity about the way his fellow scholars said farewell that they said was typical of the man and the university he stood for. There was a deep dignity to the services in Leon Mandel hall.

There were two services commemorating the president's passing. The first began at noon, when 1,200 students dropped their books and files. Mandel hall to the doors.

President Burton was a man uncharged with idealism, but he was no idealist," began Prof. J. M. Coulter.

Funeral March Begins.

"We have gathered here to begin remembering together," said Dean Ernest H. Wilkins.

Not until after 2 o'clock did the funeral march begin, from the president's house at the corner of 59th street and University avenue to Mandel hall, where flowers banked the platform. The president's body had not been in the hall at the time of the first service.

The column of faculty members is headed by Prof. Algernon Coleman, university marshal. At the corner of University avenue the column halts.

Down the front steps of the president's house, the casket is borne to its place in the line.

The pallbearers are Prof. James H. Breasted, Nathaniel Butler, Dr. Ernest E. Irons, Prof. Charles M. Judd, Alonso A. Stagg, Prof. Edgar F. Goodspeed, J. C. M. Hanson, and Dean Henry Gordon Gale.

On the other side of the street students line the curb as the procession moves onward and into the hall. The marshals stand down the aisle. Notable guests are among them. President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern University walks just ahead of Mayor Dever, who is in case and gown.

Rev. T. G. Soares Opens Service.

All quiet with the Rev. T. G. Soares begins the service with that passage of course from II. Timothy: "I have fought a good fight. I have finished my course. I have kept the faith."

The choir sings that favorite hymn of President Burton's, inspired by that passage, "Fight the Good Fight."

Former President Judson rises again. He, too, will add his share to the balancing of the account:

"President Burton had the rarest intellectual integrity. He reached his conclusions with unerring logic. He never shrank from their frank expression."

With him there was but one touchstone of thought-truth.

Harold H. Swift, president of the board of trustees, comes next:

"It has been a glorious two years," he says, and has focused the attention of his hearers with those seven words as he writes these into the accounting. He talks of the "hard and grinding work" and of the "unflinching courage and the eagerness" that met it.

"He dreamed dreams. He inaugurated plans, and did much toward their fulfillment," says the speaker. "To have known him was to love him. It was a glorious two years."

Dean Mathews Speaks.

Dean Shaffer Mathews of the divinity school stands at the reader's desk.

"The man was greater than the scholar," he says, and affection takes the place of appraising respect. "He possessed the true breadth of the scholar which at times was almost appalling. He estimated himself as impartially as he judged others."

"He was no conventional thinker, but neither was he one of those radicalists who believe that they tell the truth only when they make some hearer angry."

Like every strong man, he was ambitious, but his was an ambition for more service rather than for more honor.

The voice that began so calmly chokes now. Dean Mathews agrees you can continue:

"He passed from us on a rising curve," he says.

"He passed from us on a rising curve," he says.

He talked his religion so little and lived it so much," he says. "Too often, especially here in a university, we spend our time arguing whether there are two thousand gods or one God, the personal or the impersonal. Usually we fall on one side or the other. We look at life objectively only, deal only with facts. Or we take refuge in sentimentality, hope, and emotion."

President Burton gave us in himself what will prove infinitely precious through the decades," he goes on. After he finishes the casket will be for the work.

icaux who believes that they tell the truth only when they make some hearer angry. . . . That which stirred him most was insincerity. Like every strong man, he was ambitious, but his was an ambition for more service rather than for more honor."

The voice that began so calmly chokes now. Dean Mathews agrees you can continue:

"He passed from us on a rising curve," he says.

An intense, sharp-faced man, with hair combed back to his own, steps forward to strike the final balance. It is the Rev. Charles W. Gilkey, pastor of the Hyde Park church, President Burton's church.

"He talked his religion so little and lived it so much," he says. "Too often, especially here in a university, we spend our time arguing whether there are two thousand gods or one God, the personal or the impersonal. Usually we fall on one side or the other. We look at life objectively only, deal only with facts. Or we take refuge in sentimentality, hope, and emotion."

President Burton gave us in himself what will prove infinitely precious through the decades," he goes on. After he finishes the casket will be for the work.

taken out and carried to Oakwood cemetery for cremation. Dr. Soares will read the benediction.

He died infinitely, peacefully, though the doctor said Gilkey concludes.

"He showed us that these two ways of life need not fall apart. He gave them to us in him as one."

REGIONAL PLAN
MOVEMENT WINS
U. OF C. SUPPORT

An agreement by which the University of Chicago will cooperate with the Regional Planning association in the regional planning movement was signed last night at the university.

In carrying out the plan three faculty members, assisted by a staff of fifty, will set up at the university what, it is declared, will be the first social science laboratory in the United States.

Prof. Charles E. Merriam, head of the department of political science; Prof. J. P. Goode of the department of geography and Miss Edith Abbott of the graduate school of social service administration will be in charge of the new social science laboratory.

Up to the present, suggestions for the revalorization of the franc have brought floods of protests and have presented a difficult political problem. To many of the 2,000,000 holders of French government securities, there has remained hope that some of these days the franc would be worth gold again, and therefore there has existed strong sentimental reasons for not surrendering that hope. Apparently Calliau thinks the French renters can be persuaded that twenty-five centimes in gold are surer is worth more than the uncertainty.

Increased Balances

Despite the decline in the number of savings accounts stated May 1 aggregate on record, Illinois exception, the number by April 30 in the same month, all five states increased balances, except Indiana.

Compared with a year ago industrial employment is 8 to 10 per cent lower than in 1924, savings account larger in the districts states are higher than in this index to the state.

Iowa for the eighth month has made the largest savings and the amount per cent greater than a year ago.

What Figures Indicate

The federal reserve figures workers in the districts have per cent more money in banks today than during a short period of peace.

The reserve figures indicate that in Illinois industrial employment is about 10 per cent a year ago and about 15 per cent the level of April 1923, while the high point of industry three years.

Savings deposits are 2 per cent more and 23 per cent higher than 1920 average.

Ask Slow Drivers to Keep Near W. Side

Slow motorists are requested now, on boulevards and park systems, an order issued by Capt. William Stoddard, park police. "Some drivers travel through our parks as if they were coming and going," the captain said.

He built the first garage in America, operated the first auto livery, put the first taxicabs on the streets of Chicago, won the first 24-hour auto race in the United States, the only driver in the world to win two such events.

He holds the world's record for a continuous 24-hour drive on a one-mile track without rest or assistance. He owned the Chicago, the largest balloon in the world and was the first to be married in the clouds.

He owned the only private aerodrome in America and was one of the first to cross the Great Lakes in a balloon. He made the first drop from the clouds to the top of a building in Chicago, holds the long-distance speed record for balloons, is one of the very few private owners of a golf course, the Black Bear property near Palos Park. And he completed this remarkable chain of trail blazing victories by discovering Dynell Spring, the only water of its kind known.

C. A. Coey Who Discovered the Famous Dynell Spring

Nothing could be more fitting than for Mr. Coey to have discovered this now famous "Fountain of Youth." As a discoverer and trail blazer he holds several world records.

He built the first garage in America, operated the first auto livery, put the first taxicabs on the streets of Chicago, won the first 24-hour auto race in the United States, the only driver in the world to win two such events.

He holds the world's record for a continuous 24-hour drive on a one-mile track without rest or assistance. He owned the Chicago, the largest balloon in the world and was the first to be married in the clouds.

He owned the only private aerodrome in America and was one of the first to cross the Great Lakes in a balloon. He made the first drop from the clouds to the top of a building in Chicago, holds the long-distance speed record for balloons, is one of the very few private owners of a golf course, the Black Bear property near Palos Park. And he completed this remarkable chain of trail blazing victories by discovering Dynell Spring, the only water of its kind known.

Come Out to the Spring

Eight Miles from Western Ave. on 95th St.

Drink All the Dynell Water You Want Free!

Mr. Coey would like to see you come out to Dynell Spring and fill up with this wonder water entirely free.

He would like to see ten thousand of the worst stomach sufferers in Chicago out here Saturday and Sunday. It will give them more quiet time to think and the drug treatments they ever used.

He would like to see all those who have been taking pills, salt water, enemas, diets, massages, exercise and other methods and yet are chronic sufferers with constipation.

You are in the same frame of mind as hundreds who came out here thinking that to get rid of constipation by drinking water was a joke. But these same hundreds are today the best buyers of Dynell Water, for it actually washed out the cause of their rheumatism.

There are the best physiological reasons why this wonder water reduced high blood pressure, dissolved gallstones, took the hydrocephaly out of the brain, relieved the strain on the kidneys, greatly improved digestion, freed the body of every other form of disease. It has been bringing a host of leading Chicagoans here to get Dynell Water fresh from the spring and take it home with them.

Hundreds of the most enthusiastic letters from Chicago's prominent medical men are published daily, this odorless, tasteless, colorless water has a medical value absolutely unique. It does exactly as Mother Nature mixed it—the most valuable solution of the human body's needs that has ever been discovered anywhere in the world, and therefore you are urged to come out and try this wonder water from the Fountain of Youth free. It cannot fail to help you no matter what your trouble may be.

Costs Nothing to Try It

If you are a sufferer from rheumatism, constipation, high blood pressure, gallstones, gastritis, torpid liver, anemia, and systemic conditions for which a thorough cleansing of the blood and consequent relief to the kidneys is called for, don't fail to either visit the spring or send for a Five Gallon Test container. The regular price of the five gallons is now down to only $3.00, delivered free to any point in Cook County, slight excess charge to outside points, and is the lowest price ever made for a mineral water even of far less value. The price at the spring is $2.50.

To the Spring by Auto—Open Daily and Sunday 7 A. M. to 8 P. M.

Drive south on Michigan Ave. to 95th, west on 95th to Western Ave., south on Western Ave. to 95th, then eight miles west on 95th to Dynell Spring, which is four miles before you come to Palos Park. All the Dynell Spring Water you want to drink is entirely free. But if you cannot drive out or live too far away, fill out coupon below and mail it; or phone Palos Park 3.

CAILLAUX MAY STABILIZE FRANC AT 20 TO DOLLAR

[Copyright: 1925 by the New York Times.]

PARIS, May 25.—There is a persistent report in French financial circles that Finance Minister Calliau will propose to stabilize the franc on a gold basis at twenty-five centimes—that is, one-fourth the former value.

Under his plan this would amount to revalorization of the franc. At this figure the franc would be worth a hundred to the dollar and slightly over 20.50 to the dollar.

M. Calliau attaches the greatest importance to the stabilization of the franc, having said in his recent finance report, "We can do nothing until the franc is stabilized. Once stabilized, we can do everything."

Up to the present, suggestions for the revalorization of the franc have

JOBs DECREASE, BUT SAVINGS ARE GROWING LARGER

Reserve Bank Figures Show Employment Drop.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Jobs are getting scarcer but savings accounts are growing larger. Industrial employment decreased 1.3 per cent in April in the five states—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin, according to the report of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago, issued last night. The figure is based on reports from plants employing 280,000 workers.

Apparently the month's drop was steady among the unskilled at the lower wage levels for the change in pay rolls at the same plants was slight with a total loss of 0.2 per cent. In some groups work increased for the skilled and higher wage workers notably in the automobile and building supply industries.

Increased Balances Shown.

Despite the decline in employment, the number of savings accounts in the five states May 1 reached the largest aggregate on record. Illinois was the exception, the number being slightly under April 1. In the amount of deposits, too, all five states showed increased balances, except Illinois, where there was a small drop of 1 per cent. Compared with a year ago, although industrial employment is apparently up 10 per cent lower than on May 1, savings balances are up 1.5 per cent larger in the district. All five states are higher than a year ago in this index to the status of prosperity. Iowa for the eighth successive month has made the largest gain in savings and the amount is now 8.5 per cent greater than a year ago.

What Figures Indicate.

The federal reserve figures show the workers in the district have nearly 25 per cent more money in the savings banks today than during 1920, the silk shirt year of peaks in wages and prices when it was easy come and easy go.

The reserve bank's figures indicate that in Illinois industrial employment is about 10 per cent below a year ago, about 1.5 per cent below the level of April, 1923, which was near the high point of industry in the last three years. Savings deposits in Illinois are 2 per cent more than a year ago and 22 per cent higher than the 1920 average.

Slow motorists are requested to keep near curb on boulevards of the west park system in an order issued yesterday by Capt. William Stocker of the park police. "Some drivers want to move over and park at the rate of 40 miles an hour," the captain said. "We have no objection to that speed, but when drivers going at that speed get over in the middle of the road congestion results."

FIND 27 BODIES IN NORTH CAROLINA MINING DISASTER

Coal Glen, N. C., May 28.—(AP)—A 10:15 o'clock tonight a rescue crew came to the mouth of the shaft and reported that eleven additional bodies had been located near the 2,300 foot level of the mine of the Carolina Coal Company, in which a series of explosions occurred Wednesday morning entombing 52 men. Arrangements were made at once to bring the bodies to the surface. So far sixteen bodies have been brought out.

Relatives of some of the miners yet unaccounted for, watching in tenseness but quiet groups near the entrance of the mine, clutched at a ray of hope earlier today when one of the rescue crews reported they had heard what they believed to be the sound of human voices from behind the barricaded end of the mine. No sound was heard by other crews entering later, however, and mine officials believed the condition of the bodies already recovered indicated little hope for the remaining victims.

$10,000 IS SPENT TO CONVICT MAN OF 25 CENT THEFT

Kansas City, Mo., May 28.—(AP)—After 21 years in the United States postal service Max Ropes, 46, faces a possible prison sentence because of nine sticks of rhubarb, valued at perhaps 25 cents.

Ropes is on trial in federal court here, charged with the theft of the rhubarb from his employer himself. The government finished its case against the veteran employee late today.

"Office politics," it was indicated, will be the basis of the defense.

Co-workers of Ropes' testified today as to his taking the rhubarb from a package at a postoffice substation.

"It is not the value of the property but the principle involved," C. C. Madison, United States district attorney, told the jury.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of five years' imprisonment or a fine of $5,000, or both.

One unofficial estimate placed the cost to the government of prosecuting Ropes at $10,000.

OPEN NEW YORK DRIVE ON SMUT; DEALER RAIDED

New York, May 28.—(Special)—The police department, aided by forces of the district attorney and the Society for the Suppression of Vice, has embarked on a drive against salacious magazines, in line with a country-wide campaign. John S. Sumner, secretary of the society and a specially appointed detective, today raided a news stand and seized copies of seven publications.

The raid was made on a search warrant issued by Magistrate Glattmayer, before whom the news dealer, Jacob Goldstein and Meyer Zobel, magazine publisher, were later arraigned on charges of violating article 1140 of the penal code, which relates to manufacture and sale of indecent literature. Both men were paroled in the custody of their counsel for further examination on June 4.

Names of the magazines seized were kept secret. They were of the "art" type.

It is a hearty breakfast

When it comes to nutrition, but a light breakfast when it comes to digestion. Shredded Wheat contains all the body-building elements in the whole wheat grain prepared in a digestible form. The crisp, flavorful shreds of oven-baked whole wheat encourage thorough chewing, and that means perfect digestion. Contains more real nutriment than meat or eggs. Shredded Wheat is ready-cooked and ready-to-eat—saves fuel, saves time, saves money. Two Biscuits with milk make a perfect meal at a cost of a few cents.

BOXERS IN TRIM FOR OPENER AT AURORA TONIGHT

Charley Phil Rosenberg, the popular world's bantamweight champion, and Herbie Schaeffer, the rugged 120 pounder of the south side, will meet in the main bout of the first open air boxing show of the year at Aurora tonight. They will both ten rounds and scale 125 pounds at 8 o'clock this afternoon.

While the champion rules a strong favorite, Schaeffer will give him a battle from the first tap of the bell. Local fans will recall Schaeffer's great fight with Johnny Curtin, and his aggressive nose.

Schaeffer in Shape.

Judging from the way Schaeffer has been working in the gymnasium, he is expected to carry the fight to its opponent. The tall, thin training bouts of the local fighter have been the aggressive and has been hitting harder and straighter with his right hand, while he has developed a left hook which may result in scoring punches. Herbie is in better shape than he has been for any recent fights.

Rosenberg, however, is a real champion. He showed his class by coming from behind to earn a draw with Harald Smith at East Chicago a week ago.

Welsch Meet Kaplan.

In the semi-windup, K. O. Phil Kaplan of New York, who is considered one of the logical challengers of Mickey Walker, the world's welterweight champion, will meet Frankie Welsh of Cicero. Welsh has shown vast improvement over previous appearances in Aurora and East Chicago.

From an Aurora standpoint, interest will center around the initial professional appearance of Frank "Duke" Hanny, the former Indiana university football captain, a citizen of Aurora. Hanny will meet "Wild Dan" O'Connell, Gary lightweight, the four-round opener.

Another Aurora Boy on Card.

Low Denny, another Aurora product expects to do as much pitching in the ring as he does on the slab, when he meets Mack Defino, the local Filipino in one of the six round preliminaries. In the other six round, Billy Gerber of Streator will clash with George Davis of Sycamore. Both bouts will be in the six round weight class.

If weather conditions are favorable, promoters Jim Mullin and Jack Sauer expect the little pine bowl to be well filled. Tickets are on sale at the usual places and a special train will be run over the Aurora and Elgin electric, leaving the Wells street terminal at 6:45 o'clock this evening, daylight saving time.

RIDING CLUB AND GRASMERE FARM PLAY POLO TODAY

The opening polo tournament of the season will be played today, tomorrow, and Sunday at the grounds of the Chicago Golf club in Wheaton.

Three teams—the Chicago Riding club, Grasmere Farm, and Spur and Saddle—will compete, today's battle being between the Riding club and Grasmere. It will start at 4:30.

Purple, Maroon Net Pilots Clash Today at Evanston

The leaders of the University of Chicago and Northwestern university tennis teams will settle the question of superiority this afternoon when Capt. Jim Valentine of the Midway men and Capt. ## GENARO GETS DECISION OVER HAROLD SMITH

TRIBUNE DECISIONS

Decisions of Tribune boxing representatives:

At New York—Frankie Genaro beat Harold Smith [16]; Allentown Johnny Leonard beat Jack Hammer [16]; Eddie [Kid] Wagner beat Jerry Silvers [16].

New York, May 28.—[Special.]—

Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion, conceded weight, height, and reach to Harold Smith, Chicago bantamweight, in their ten round bout which featured the opening of the Dexter stadium in Brooklyn before a crowd of 8,000 fight fans tonight and then proceeded to give the Chicagoan an artistic boxing lesson.

A sound drubbing also was Smith's share, but this was incidental and a natural outgrowth of the other things Genaro gave his rival.

Genaro Wins 8 Rounds.

Judges Charles F. Mathison and Flirrie Barnett and Referee Tommy Sheridan gave their decision to Genaro when the bout ended and the crowd was satisfied. Genaro outboxed and outgeneraled Smith in eight of the ten rounds. Smith, rallying strongly after the eighth, had the second round and held Genaro even in the fourth, but in every other round Genaro had a clear edge on points.

The little champion, hooking and jabbing, had the Chicagoan bewildered with his rapid fire use of the left to the face and body, and with left jabs had Smith's head snapping back throughout the bout.

Genaro Finishes Strong.

Genaro saved his greatest display for the tenth and last round. After outboxing his rival through the early sessions, he went out to outfight Smith in the closing chapter, and did just that, battering Smith about the ring under a rapid fire of left hooks and jabs and right crosses to the face which had the blood flowing from an old wound in Smith's lip.

CANNEFAK DROPS BEHIND HOPPE

Willie Hoppe, for the first time since the 600 point three cushion billiard exhibition match opened at Mussey's last Monday, went ahead of Bob Cannefak yesterday. After losing a bit of ground by dropping the afternoon block, 50 to 42, the former ballroom king stepped out, cut his opponents lead, and then went to the fore with a burst of brilliant shots. The evening score, the eighth block, was 61 to 39.

Charles Brickley Found Not guilty of Forgery

Springfield, Mass., May 28.—(AP)—Charles E. Brickley, former Harvard football star, was tonight found not guilty of indictment charging forgery and larceny by a jury in Superior Criminal court here.

MICHAEL AND PAUL REST ARMS, WAGGLE TONGUES BEFORE GO

BY FRENCH LANE.

There is to be considerable class to the riding colony at the Aurora races opening next Thursday the list of applications for jockey licenses now on file with the board of stewards indicates.

Most of the riders are moving to Aurora from Churchill Downs and Maple Heights, a number being already on the scene of the first meeting of the year in the Chicago district.

Twenty-four applications for licenses were on file yesterday and practically all will be granted as most of the boys coming here have already been licensed either in Kentucky, New York, or Maryland.

Paul cannot figure Mike's knock-out punch from recent performances of the light heavyweight champion, and he is of the opinion that Mike's hand will again break under pressure.

On performance Berlenbach undoubtedly has the call over Michael, but the boys figure Mike has the best chance. He has not had arm up his sleeve or he would never have risked his precious title against a hitter like Paul.

SPONSOR PAINTS GLOWING PICTURE OF NICKEL PLATE

Fair to All, Van Sweringen Declares to I. C. C.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., May 28.—[Special.]—Taking the witness stand today in the hearing of the interstate commerce commission on the application of the new Nickel Plate company to unify the properties of the old Nickel Plate, the Chesapeake and Ohio, Hocking Valley, Pere Marquette, and Erie railroads, O. P. Van Sweringen, chairman of the board of the Nickel Plate, told the story of the proposed consolidation from its inception.

Mr. Van Sweringen declared that he and his brother, M. J. Van Sweringen, had believed from the beginning that they were engaged in a constructive undertaking which would promote the public interest.

"If what we are doing is not in the public interest, we realize it would not last and we have no desire to be permitted to do it," Mr. Van Sweringen said.

Tried to Be Fair.

"We have done the best we knew how to be fair to every interest involved, as well as how large any stockholder's interest is or how long he has held it. All should be justly dealt with and we want to feel when this case is over that this commission has either found our proposal fair to all or has so modified it that the most obscure and unrepresented stockholders in any of these properties will have been as fairly treated as larger interests which are here to represent them."

"There is no fact, large or small, about any part of this proposal which I desire to keep from the commission." It was in 1916, the witness said, when the Van Sweringens made a contract with the New York Central for the purchase of the majority of the stock of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railway company (Nickel Plate). Cost was $5,500,000.

The purchase comprised 25,025 shares of the then first preferred stock, 15,150 shares of second preferred, and 63,400 shares of common, at a total price of $5,500,000.

"It has been the subject of some public comment that when buying the railroad we did not have $8,500,000 or anything like that amount, and therefore we must have represented some one else," said Mr. Van Sweringen.

The favorite stockholders "are the New York Central," said the company and that they have "not really sold the property to us at all. We had turned it over to us and IIS [sic] we were the 'little brother' to the 'big brother.'

This "little brother" idea is unfounded in fact, Mr. Van Sweringen declared, admitting they did not have the $8,500,000, and stating that they did not require that amount at all one time.

"Six and a half million dollars of the purchase money was deferred over a period of years, with the stock pledged as collateral," Mr. Van Sweringen said.

The $1,000 cash down payment, he said, was hard enough to raise.

We had accumulated some property in and about Cleveland, but we had not reached the stage where we had $1,000,000 in the bank. We were busy enough raising the money. Our method of providing it was the organization of the then Nickel Plate Securities corporation, with the creation of common stock and 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock."

Tells of First Merger.

Regarding the sales of these securities, the witness said there was no railroad interest in the purchases.

Mr. Van Sweringen then briefly reviewed the acquisition of the Cleveland, Cincinnati and Western, the Fort Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville, and the Chicago and State Line railroad companies, which were merged into the present Nickel Plate company.

"There are other railroads we will desire to acquire to fully round out the Nickel Plate system, as we see it completed, but those proposed by us now to be unified, in our judgment, should function well in the service to be given shippers and the public," Mr. Van Sweringen said.

Mr. Van Sweringen then took up in detail the acquisition of stock in the Chesapeake and Ohio, Hocking Valley, Pere Marquette, and Erie. He set forth the basis for the exchange of stock, and emphasized that provision had been made that any stockholder who wished to sell his stock for cash could receive the average market value of his share for the six months preceding the stockholder's mailing.

He declared that this provision was the equivalent of "fair value" and was entirely willing that the appraisers might regard it in that sense.

GALLIGAN OUSTS 3D DEPUTY PUT IN BY KLANSMEN

Marion, Ill., May 28.—[Special.]—Sheriff George Galligan today removed the third of the officials put into office by the Klan county board when they forced the sheriff to leave the county.

Tommy Thornton, special Herrin deputy sheriff, is the man ousted. Galligan put Adron Smith of Crest Springs in his place. Others removed are jailer Dick Robinson and Bill Palmer, office deputy. Two other deputy sheriffs named by the Klan board are expected to be relieved soon, which will make a complete housecleaning on the part of Galligan in less than a month.

Representatives of Klansmen on the county board have been to Springfield in conference with Gov. Smith in an effort to have Galligan sent away again. The Klansmen and Galligan both say the governor offered no objection to the sheriff's return.

PALMERS U. S. STATEMENT: TO JAIL

Joseph E. Ball, a former accountant for the Morgan Park Military academy, was found guilty yesterday and sentenced to six months in jail for falsifying a statement to the government.

Too Many Laws Passed.

The lawyers and jurists agreed that the following defects were present in the state's present judicial system:

1. There are too many laws.

2. Lawyers are paid too much and are guilty of misconduct in some instances in their eagerness to succeed.

3. The grand jury is a hindrance to justice.

4. The courts, largely because of the activity of newspapers, are treated with levity.

Many Courts Represented.

Present at the judge's meeting were Judges Floyd K. Thompson and Frederick R. De Young of the Supreme court; Appellate Judges David Macchett, John O'Connor, Thomas Taylor; other judges—William N. Gemmill, Edmund K. Jarecki, Oscar M. Torrison, Francis S. Wilson, Harry Fisher, Joseph B. David, George F. Rush, all of Chicago; John M. Niehaus of Peoria; Oscar E. Heard of Freeport, and others.

Judge Jarecki of the County court here, was elected chairman of the section of the grand jury.

"The grand jury is a travesty," Judge Gemmill declared. "It is a boon to criminal lawyers and nothing else. The coroner's office also should be abolished and replaced by medical examiners."

"There were 279,000 arrests in Chicago in 1924, of those 7 per cent were for violation of laws that did not exist 50 years ago."

Too Many Laws, Lawyer Says.

Judge Gemmill said, however, that a study of these new laws revealed that many of them, in his opinion, were needed. The lawyers meeting in another room of the hotel did not agree with him. C. M. Clay Buntain of Kankakee, president of the bar association, saying there were too many laws and that "and the whole world influences the need of laws."

Appellate Judge Charles M. Thompson delivered the principal address at the judge's meeting. He said it hampers the work of the courts to have cameras clicking and telegraph instruments clattering.

"Some trials have descended to the level of vaudeville performances," declared Judge De Young.

WHITE WATER

By ROBERT E. PINKERTON

SYNOPSIS.

Larry Vail, a handsome young woodsman, is commissioned by Howard Franklin to build a hunting lodge on Franklin's forest preserve. With the help of two friends, Hughie and Eddie, he sets out to inspect the cabins and roads through the winter. In the spring Franklin offers him the summer at the camp. Mrs. Franklin is interested in taking pictures of the woods and Larry accomodates her by a photographic expedition. On their return, Eddie is unable to control his anger against Marcia for taking Larry. Two men decide to camp a storm overtake them and they find a small cabin. Eddie is terrified and clings to Larry in fear. He puts his arms about her to comfort her. Larry replies her that she loves him and bids him to come with her. Larry replies her that she loves him and bids him to come with her. Eddie is surprised to find that Howard Franklin has unexpectedly arrived.

INSTALLMENT XXXV.
THIS FIGHT BEGINS.

Before Marcia could reply there came the thump of heavy feet in the outer office.

"Hey, Larry!" a rough voice shouted. "Where's them horseshoes you showed last week?"

Marcia looked through the door, and saw the sooty face of the blacksmith above the counter.

"They's at Sabawi and the tote team will bring them down in the morning," she answered.

"You tell that pretty boy I'll straddle his neck if they ain't."

Larry, seated in a corner, looked at Marcia as the heavy feet thumped through the door. His eyes were twinkling but there was no response for a moment.

"My name's Harris," he began abruptly.

Instant. Then in her he saw that understanding light that had first attracted him.

"All right, Larry," she laughed. "Now to get back where we started, the man I was about to speak of. Who is the tote teamster?"

"That's Rene Lacroaire."

"Lacroaire!" she repeated incredulously. "Not the man you told me about last summer? When we were fishing? You aren't going to keep him, are you?"

"Why not?" he asked, surprised by her sudden vehemence.

"Did you ever hire him?" she countered.

"I didn't. He was working here when I came and he's a good man."

"But you can't tell what he'll do. I've watched him. That first day he was outside the window as you went by and his expression was actually murderous. He'll do something terrible some day."

"Of course, Rene doesn't like me none too well," Larry said, "but giving him time wouldn't change things."

"He's dangerous," she protested. "I can't do that. He's always on the prowl with women, and it's your uncle's money. Set mine, he's earning it."

When Larry had first told her of Lacroaire, Marcia understood. That understanding of the male attitude toward certain things formed part of the basis upon which her relations with Howard Franklin had been built; had proved an infinite source of comfort to her uncle.

Yet Marcia was a woman and, though she recognized the peculiar male viewpoint, she did not always agree with it. She, and all her sex, would have been ruthless in Lacroaire's case. To her he was a menace.

"I don't think you have the right now to take that stand," she said. "He might strike at you through the mill in some way."

"When I come to that stretch of bad ice I'll get across somehow," Larry vowed. "You see, I've had a couple of quite serious talks with Rene and I am in fairly well. Why, if it was as bad as you think I'd be dead of fright by now."

The next morning a man appeared at the mill, and asked to see Larry. At the outer room, showed him into Marcia's office, where she and Larry had resumed work on their sales campaign. The stranger was about fifty years old, small, quick in his movements and with a cold, steady, searching gaze.

"My name's Harris," he began abruptly. "With the Northern Construction company. We need fourteen hundred thousand feet in a hurry, what you got?"

Larry recognized the company as one of those to which Marcia had addressed telegrams. To hide his eagerness he arose and placed a chair for Harris. When he had resumed his own Marcia turned and handed the newsmen a sheet of paper.

"This is the tally of what we have in the yard," she said.

Larry experienced a comfortable feeling as he recognized this prompt efficiency. Harris glanced over the sheet and then drew a notebook from his pocketbook.

"Will you check this, please?" he asked as he returned the paper to Marcia.

He began reading figures rapidly and the girl's pencil darted about the page.

"We can do it," she announced when he had finished.

"All right," Harris said. "I'll pay market price, f. o. b. mill. But I want to know how much you're asking."

"Harris looked at him keenly for an instant."

"But it's not loaded," he retorted sharply. "We're in a big hurry for that. That's why we came to you. Thought you could get it out. You willing to sell a dollar and a half a thousand, if the shipment isn't loaded in fifteen days?"

Larry was about to agree. He knew it could be done. But before the words were out a freight train roared past the mill. Fifty or sixty times in the space of four hours this occurred. The annual transportation of wheat from the vast prairies of western Canada was at its height. The yards at Sabawi, a division point, were crowded with cars wheat laden for the great lakes and, many returning.

"We can load the lumber," he said, "but I don't know whether we can get the men."

"What's up to you?" Harris retorted as he arose. "I'll be in Sabawi until the afternoon train. The contract will be drawn up. Here's a memo of the terms. You will find me at Mrs. Wade's."

He bowed stiffly to Marcia, and went out. Larry looked at the girl and said:

"This selling begins to look like the easiest part of it," he said.

"But you can get the cars?" she asked eagerly.

"I'll get it can. Sid," he called through the door, "hurry up to the stable and hook up the drivers. You see, and he turned to Marcia, the same men do, and if they're to be ready for the stuff they'll see we get the cars fast as we can load 'em. But we'll be ready."

He accepted the invitation as readily and unconsciously as Larry had done, but as she hurried to Mrs. Oland's house to get a coat she realized she would have been hurt had he gone alone. It was their fight, the sale of the lumber, and she wanted to be in every bit of it.

They talked excitedly as they went to town. There Larry, after a talk with the station agent, sent a telegram to the freight department in Toronto. The next noon he received an answer to the effect that cars would be loaded as fast as he could load them.

"That settles it," he said as he showed the telegram to Marcia.

She was舞 as she read it.

"Don't you suppose we could get him to take that other hundred thousand?" she asked breathlessly. "Uncle Howard and Burson would be so pleased if we had sold every stick."

"Larry said, and each was entirely unconscious of their use."

Marcia frowned when Larry made the suggestion and then suddenly agreed.

Larry was left gasping by the speed and ease, the entire camouflaged.

He had a few more moments but he wired to Port Arthur for more and also wired for cars, and half a dozen empties be sent down from Sabawi at once. The next three were there and the work began.

Good Morning!
This is the sequel to "Riders of the Purple Sage." If curiosity as to what happened to the three people the last Zorro picture left pennied up in Hidden Valley is still burning on your damask checks, here's where it's all bound up with the story of Lassiter. Anne Cornwall is small Fay Larkin of "The Riders of the Purple Sage" grown up.

To tell you anything at all of the plot of this "western" would be of no interest for you—because the plot is slight and what there is of it comes from you to via the picture. So, just this from me to you this morning:

"The Rainbow Trail" has lots of action—some of it too active to ring true. It has some beautiful scenery. It has a couple rather effective doses of comedy and a rather pleasing background of love interest. The acting is all quite good; the photography very nice and the direction not bad at all.

Nobdy but Mr. Mix could have dragged all those miles at the heels of gallant Anne Cornwall and recovered so rapidly and completely his lost traces of stiffness as does he.

Beholding the miracle you are loquacious—that either Mr. Mix or his director would have permitted such a harrowing cause and such an unharrowing effect. O, well.

I heard a little today telling about another Mix picture the other day. A few words carried plainly to my ears. They were: "Tom Mix he done it. That Tom Mix can do ANYTHING!"

Mebbe he can. See you tomorrow!

The Question.

Do you agree with Supt. McAndrew that school teachers should be gay in their attire?

Where Asked.

Chicago avenue at Dearborn street. The Answers.

Miss Lucile Olsen, 3152 Fullerton avenue, auditor—I'll tell you I believe that in matters of dress teachers should be guided by plain good sense, as befits an intelligent and an attractive teacher. Then should be cheerful mentally and in color and cut of dress, but not gay, nor extreme in anything.

John O'Brien, 4021 Broadway, salesman-Supt. McAndrew's office—He is right. Children look on their teachers as something more than Miss or Mr. So and So. Their personalities are impressed upon children's minds and remembered throughout their life.

John O'Brien, 4021 Broadway, salesman-Supt. McAndrew's office—I'll tell you I believe that in matters of dress teachers should be guided by plain good sense, as befits an intelligent and an attractive teacher. Then should be cheerful mentally and in color and cut of dress, but not gay, nor extreme in anything.

Do You Want to Be Popular? Learn to Be a Good Listener

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A New York psychologist announced the other day that the chief secret of feminine charm is "the faculty of listening to the utterances of all people as though each were a fountain head of wisdom."

The announcement was made with headlines labeling it as "The Latest Dope on Vamping 'Em." If the archaeologists who dug up the evidence in the ancient city of Kish that Kish girls were painted coquettes had dug a little deeper they would, no doubt, have unearthed a pamphlet advising cultivation of the listening faculty. That is older than the 3,000 year old city itself.

It has withstood the test of thousands of years, because it is good advice. There is nothing "just as good" — there is nothing better.

All you have to do is to try it out on yourself. You don't have to be to the vamped sex to test its merits. Aren't those you like best those who imply by their manner, that you just about right in everything? Wanted them to be? Well, isn't that you, the fact that they recognize your ability lifts them away out of mediocrity. You pay them the compliment they pay you. They know something won't when they see it.

If it works on your own sex, you may be sure it works doubly well on the opposite. I don't claim you can make a man love you, but you can make him like you. But you are an unusual girl. You can interest him. You can infuse him with a warm emotion, which is a fine reconnoitering base for further operations. If you keep up the role, and listen just a little better than any other girl, you're pretty well got him in hand. And if you keep that up after you are married, and listen more rapidly than any blonde third angle could possibly do, there won't be any triangles.

There is in every human heart a longing for sympathetic understanding. We either think pretty well of ourselves, or else we want to be inspired by some one to think better of ourselves. The person who can supply that appreciation is the one who wins us over. And if that one ever gets so old, hardened, or insensitive as to lack response to adulation.

One of the hardest boiled business men you'd meet in a lifetime was heard to repeat a compliment paid him by an old scrubwoman he met when he arrived early at his office one morning. She had the gift of blarney and she was generous with it. Yet this hardened old financial wizard was plainly affected when he told her he had that morning acclaimed him the most wonderful man in the whole building.

We are all like that under the skin. Call it vanity, or the need of appreciation to keep us going, it is present. So, instead of labeling it the latest dope on vamping 'em' call it instead the best dope on getting and holding 'em.' And don't let the faculty remain undeveloped.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Ask for Release.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a boy, 19, considered good looking and have made the track squad and a fraternity. Since coming to school I have had several dates with sorority girls and like them and they seem to enjoy my society. In my home town I have a girl who has said she is in love with me, and although I have felt many times that I really do care for her, and have often done my best efforts to be sincere, I am not really. What should I do? Two weeks I have had three bids to go to sorority house dances, and I do not know whether I should accept them or not. Should I remain true to my true home-town girl? CHESTER."

A young man of your age shouldn't tie himself down to any one girl. It is unfair to yourself and to the girl. If you are really interested in her, ask her to release you, not because you think less highly of her but because you realize the necessity of getting around and mixing with others so that you may be in a position to choose wisely when the time comes. Then you will be in a position to accept all invitations. Chester.

TAKE BOTH TOGETHER

Milk of Magnesia and Mineral Oil Now Combined

One of the most important medical achievements of recent years is the combination of milk of magnesia and mineral oil. Haley's Magnesia-Oil successfully combines the two, and makes them doubly effective.

The oil carries the magnesia straight to the lower bowel, the seat of most so-called stomach trouble. All of the salts of the milk of magnesia are applied to the rectum to trouble at source. Poisonous acids are neutralized, clogged tracts are lubricated—at one and the same time. Action is prompt, but devoid of griping. Delightful to take; no oily taste. Can be mixed with milk and given children without their knowledge.

Get a bottle of Haley's Magnesia-Oil to-day. Mail order. We will mail a postpaid on receipt of price. Large sample, 16 oz. The Haley M-O Company, Indianapolis, Ind.

Dissolving Sugar.

A large number of recipes for cooking sugar need amending. The statement, "Dissolve over fire," should read dissolve off the fire. It is discouraging to have a fudge or fondant turn back to sugar when we are trying it. It is discouraging to find a large number of recipes for summer beverages with a layer of crystals over it. It is discouraging when we have spent time and money and effort in making jellies to find when we come to use them a whole bed of coarse crystals in the bottom of the glass, all because the sugar was not thoroughly dissolved before it is put again over the fire. When it is once over the glucose, or other syrup to prevent this crystal forming, but the best way to hinder it is to dissolve the sugar in the liquid before it is put over the fire, letting it stand for a while, and then stirring it for several minutes. If there are sugar crystals above the liquid they can then be wiped off and much more effectively than when the effort is made to do so over a hot liquid with a spoon. Not one single crystal should be left.

When a preparation like chocolate syrup or a fudge is made and one part of the mixture is hot before the sugar is added, that part can profitably be taken from the fire and the sugar thoroughly stirred into it, and as nearly as possible dissolved before it is put again over the fire. When it is once over the

We had let Ruth go with Betty to a children's party. The last thing we told Ruth was to watch Ruth carefully.

When they came home we asked how they got on, and Betty calmly said, "O, I des turned Ruthie over to a Foiled!

I was at a movie one night with friend husband. It was during quite a thrilling part of the picture, and as I am not given to loudly voicing my approval or disapproval of the pictures, I must have been absorbed that I did not realize what I was doing. For just the dastardly villain was going in his attempt to ensnare the lovely heroine, I found myself saying in a loud voice: "A-ha, smartly!" Mrs. A. A. V.

Impossible to Replace.

My cousin, whom I was visiting, took me one day to see an old and gracious friend of hers, who had many much prized and invaluable possessions in her home. Among them was an old plate, an heirloom over a century old, which had brought out tenderly for me to admire.

Toughly I took the prized possession in my own hand, then passed it to my cousin. Thinking it safe and grasped it, I relinquished my hold and the plate fell in a hundred pieces to the floor. An heirloom, it can never be replaced and the recollection of that unhappy moment even brings a flush of embarrassment to my face.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—Col. James A. Logan, messenger on the reparations in Paris, has resigned "business" reasons, nation has been accepted Kellogg.

Until Secretary Kellogg's successor Mr. Logan's mission will be placed in the hands of W. S. Hill, assistant state department.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—The Belgian government had been indicated as reluctant to enter into arrangements for the payment of its war-time and post-war indebtedness to the United States until France had completed an agreement to refund similar obligations, has come forward with a definite expression of willingness to make a settlement.

Notice to that effect was given to Secretary Mellon, chief United States world war commission, by Baron de Carteret, ambassador.

Mellon Tells of

This course of the Belgian government, extremely pleasing to the administration, was taken this afternoon by Mr. J. E. Mellon's statement reads:

"On his return from Belgium he represented his government's inauguration of Gen. Maxime Baré, Belgian ambassador, Baron de Carteret, after consultation with the Belgian state, called on the secretary of state, informed him of the treasury and informed him of the size of the Belgian government, at an early date, with the foreign debt fund for the definite settlement of Belgian obligations to America, that the Belgian government, ever to Washington a committee by Mr. Theunis and which prominent Belgian
